The A320 series has two variants, the A320-100 and A320-200. Only 21 A320-100s were ever produced. These aircraft, the first to be manufactured, have been flown only by Air France and British Airways. The A320-200 features wingtip fences and increased fuel capacity resulting in increased range. Other differences are minimal. Indian Airlines used their first 31 A320-200s with a double-bogie main landing gear for airfields with poor runway conditions.
